ABOUT Seedling

THE MISSION of Seedling is to support children challenged by parental incarceration with innovative, research-driven, school-based mentoring. The trauma of losing a parent to incarceration puts these children at risk, and the associated stigma and shame can lead these families to suffer in silence. Seedling works to invest in the future of these children and instill in each student that they have worth and the potential for a bright future. Our vision is that all children will have the support they need to achieve and prosper despite life challenges and circumstances and that every child struggling with the loss of a parent to incarceration will be connected with a caring and consistent mentor.

AUSTIN'S FAB FIVE is Seedling's major annual fundraising event at which we honor five exceptional community leaders who provide significant contributions to the youth in our community, especially the underserved. The Fab Five understand the importance of giving back and supporting their communities. Past honorees include business leaders who promote a culture of giving and volunteerism in their organization, government and health advocates, philanthropists, educators, and social justice advocates.

THE PURPOSE of Austin's Fab Five event is to raise funds for Seedling's Mentor Program serving children challenged by parental incarceration and to recognize five exceptional people who have had a significant impact on young people, in their profession and in our community. Proceeds from this event will allow us to provide our students with hope, resiliency, and a vision for a bright future. Seedling plans to serve 667 children this year and needs your support to grow our mentoring program in Central Texas.
